DIARY NOTES

1. [REDACTED] advised me that no one has come forth with a good candidate for the course in Congressional operations sponsored by the Civil Service Commission. (I have asked [REDACTED] to canvass our offices again to see if we don't have someone.)

2. [REDACTED] advised me that the dual compensation bill now being considered in Congress would offer those retired military people who are now employed in civilian jobs a choice between the old and the new law. The new law would allow military personnel to accept civilian salaries and keep the first $2,500 of their retired pay plus 50 per cent of that in excess of $2,500. The bill, if enacted into law, will therefore require some positive action on our part at that time.

3. [REDACTED] telephoned to request a DD/S designee to work with him on a paper which he is preparing for the Director's signature to the Secretary of Defense having to do with the National Military Command System. I designated

5. I talked with Jack Barman about the action which the Inspector General is taking to obtain a list of property held by proprietary organizations and which is not a part of the records of the Office of Logistics. [REDACTED] is conducting this study which is almost complete, and Jack will be very glad to furnish a copy of it to me. However, this will not solve the fundamental problem of whether the records of such property should be in the Office of Logistics and what action should be taken to ensure that they are in the first instance recorded and maintained thereafter.

6. I met with Heinz Abersfeller of GSA to discuss our downtown office space, as a result of which we agreed to refine our criteria so as to try to pinpoint a

Later in the day I met with Jim Garrison, [REDACTED] to discuss 25X1A9a this problem further and have requested that they expedite a time and distance study which we can use to reduce the criteria to writing.

He is relatively junior, but we are confident that Ben will do a good job, and he should be told, of course, that he is not going to be jet-propelled from a grade GS-14 to GS-16.

8. Emmett alerted me to a possible reduction in force (701 procedure) in the Office of Central Reference. They are at the moment 60 over-strength and the Industrial Register, which has [REDACTED] people, is going to be abolished. I instructed him to reassign these people insofar as possible in the DD/I area and to explore all other avenues in the Agency before resigning to another 701 procedure. (This also raises a question in my mind as to whether we should permit any office to become this much over-strengthened and whether the Director of Personnel doesn't have a responsibility to ensure that this doesn't happen without bringing it to the attention of and obtaining the approval of higher authority.) 25X9
